NEWS RELEASE

Eddie Hooker, Managing Director, said:

“With premiums currently at an all time high we are pleased to be able to offer practitioners a real saving on their medical malpractice insurance, as well as providing an improved product and increased level of service. We have achieved this through our extensive knowledge of the aesthetic market and by careful selection of properly trained and qualified practitioners for insurance.

The competition in medical malpractice insurance is rapidly increasing, with other providers looking to capitalise on this growth area. But to really understand the industry and the needs of its practitioners it takes time, knowledge and an involvement in raising standards.

That is why with 12 years of experience in providing insurance solutions to aesthetic practitioners, we are still the number one aesthetic insurance broker”.
